Today we had a lecture from Professor Kuroda about Japanese education. Professor, Kuroda referred to some graphs and tables at today's lecture.

The contents of the lecture in the morning consisted of background information, Legal framework of Education, Organizational structure. And the lecture in the afternoon was about Educational administration, Finance, Teachers and Curriculum and Textbook. All participants seemed to be interested in this lecture and they asked a lot of questions after the lecture, especially about Educational administration and Finance. Also, participants discussed them with each other during the discussion time, so by discussing, they seemed to learn about the study more deeply.

After the lecture, participants reviewed today's lecture following a reflection sheet. This reflection sheet has some questions, "Which know-how would you like to use in education systems of your home country?" or "Is it possible to introduce the things you have learnt here to your home country as they are?" .
