Today's training session can be divided into two parts; 1. Lecture by Prof. Kuwayama and 2. Lecture by Prof. Ishida.

First lecture was about the lesson study. Prof. Kuwayama showed samples of a lesson record, lesson plan, and lesson observation sheet, and he explained "what is the lesson study", and "how to implement the lesson study" in Japan. Also, trainees watched the movie that teachers were practicing of the lesson study in Japan. They seemed to watch it with ardor and admire that practice. After that, they talked about features/goodness and question/difficulty of the lesson study. They discussed two things; 1. How can you apply "the lesson study" as possible measures for improving educational issue? 2. How can you evaluate the potential project you planned? After the lecture, trainees asked many questions to Prof. Kuwayama.

In the Second lecture, Prof. Ishida explained the importance of evaluation, the objective of evaluation and how Hiroshima University implemented class-evaluation. She showed homepage of MEXT, and talked about how MEXT evaluated those policies. When they discussed differences among evaluation, assessment, and audit, they had a lively exchange of views. In reflection time, following those two lectures' points, they discussed the lesson study that matched the current situation in each country.
