Today is the last day of the training.

First, in order to improve this training that will continue from the next year, there was a place to hear opinions and reflections from the trainees. While expressing opinions one by one, most of the participants seemed satisfied with the contents. In particular, they were very grateful for the lectures, teachers and JICA. Improvements such as helping more detailed information on the Japanese curriculum were also mentioned.

At the graduation ceremony, each trainee was given a certificate of completion, and greetings were given by Dr. Kazuhiro Yoshida and Ms. Fiona from Papua New Guinea, the representative of the trainees. They seemed to have built up a relationship that could continue to interact and have a positive impact on each other's countries.
